THREE BLASTS OF

Powder Explodes in a Burning Warehouse and Causes Frightful Havoc.

VICTIMS HORRIBLY MANGLED.

Scene of the Disaster Strewn with Mutilated Remains-150 Injured.

BUTTE, Mont., Jan. 16 .- From seventyave to one hundred persons, it is now es-timated, were killed by a powder explosion here lest night. The numbe of wounded is believed at this hour to be at least 150.

At 9.55 o'clock last night the Fire Department responded to a call from box 72, the call of death to nearly the entire Department. The fire was either in the store of Kenyon Connell, or the Butte Hardware Company's warehouse and both contained powder. There was a rumor that there was powder in the buildings, and this reached ears of the firemen as soon as they and after a moment's hesitation they began fighting the fire

At 10.08—the men had barely started to work-there was an explosion which shook Butte to its very foundation. The powder in the warehouse blew up, spreading death and ruin to all who were near. It is believed that in the first explosion only three firemen were tors, however, and as soon as the stun of the shock passed away, while some ran in terror, many immediately began pulling the mutilated bodies of the firemen and injured from the proximity of the flames. From all over the city peo-ple began moving towards the fire, and the crowd had greatly increased within Just about that length of time after the first explosion, a second explosion almost equal in volume to the first heightened the terror all over the city and spread death and desolation among scores of citizens. Parts of bodies were hurled hundreds of feet away. A man near the Northern Pacific water was almost struck by the leg and thigh of a human being, driven by the force of dynamite from the fearful scene.

There were still heroes left to help shricking wounded and the groan-There had been two explo-and there might be more. There were rumors of carloads of powder in warehouses.

Five minutes later a third explosion occurred, but it was a mild one, and it is believed that very few, if any, were injured by it. The disaster had all ocfifteen minutes, the most rible quarter of an hour in Butte's hisbled a field of battle more than anything The dead were strewn everywhere and the cries and groans of the injured and dying presented a scene altogether tered about. Legs and arms and pieces of flesh and entrails were scattered around. It was sickening. Between the depots, a space of 300 feet, the ground

The scene was one of utter and desolate destruction. Houses in the vicinity were badly wrecked, as if a cyclone had struck them. One of the rescuing corps gathered twenty-seven dead bodies in one place. Eight were in another. Two and three were in groups here and there. The rescuers pulled still quivering bodies from the debris, the mutilated beings still groaning while legs and arms had been torn of. Shapeless trunks quivered and died in the arms of the living.

The work of rescue was prosecuted in earnest. Every vehicle in the city was brought into service to carry away the scores of dead and the hundreds of injured. The hospitals were filled. The spare rooms in the hotels were taken and private houses were thrown open where it was necessary.

The hose wagon crew. Chief Cameron. Assistant Chief Shan, Sam Ash, Ed Sloan, Dave Moses, Dave Magee and Jack Fiannery, are all supposed to have lost their lives. Magee was the driver and remained with the wagon about forty yards away, while Fiannery was at the hydrant. The hook and ladder was manned by George Fifer and Pete Mosn. of the regular Department, and William Orr, a vounteer. Chief Cameron directed the work on the building so that they could get at the flames. Just as they had succeeded in tearing off a part of the covering and secured an entrance the first explosion came. A blinding sheet of flame forced the roof from its fastenings, ami shot a hundred feet into the air. This was followed by a second of deadly silence, and then came the death trap and destruction on every hand.

The subject of the Mayor's representative is agitating the members of both Committees on Cities, to which all proposed New York City legislation is referred.

During the discussion in the Benate, this morning, Senator Lexow, in reply to a question from Mr. Cantor, said that the Mayor had indorsed all of the reform bills presented in the Legislature under the auspices of the Committee of Seventy.

Chairman O'Grady, of the Assembly Committee on Cities, told "The Evening World" correspondent that the uncertainty as to the identity of the Mayor's spokesmen in the Assembly was causing a good deal of annoyance.

tainty as to the identity of the Mayor's spokesmen in the Assembly was causing a good deal of annoyance.
"I wish that the Mayor," he said, "would let us know the name or names of the Republican Assemblymen from New York who are officially authorized to speak for him. There are seventeen Republican Assemblymen from New York, and almost every one of them claims that the Mayor has approved measures relating to New York City that have been introduced.

"I have not been informed as to the Mayor's preference as to his representative, and am compelled to accept the word of the member who assures me that he enjoys that distinction.

"I wish you would call the Mayor's attention to the matter."

Chairman O'Grady introduced in the Assembly a bill providing that the Mayors of all second and third class cities shall fix a day upon which public hearings shall be held to discuss special laws introduced in the Legislature and relating to such cities. Such hearings shall be advertised, and the Mayor shall certify to the Legislature at the conclusion of them whether or not his city desires the bill to become a law.

A bill providing for such hearings in yesterdar, said this morning:
"I was foreman of the Grand Jury at Butte four years ago, when we indicted some fifteen prominent firms for storing giant powder and other explosives within the city limits. It checked the evil for a time, but they have become negligent again. The disaster will probably exceed the reports."
